

Recall

Short Pitch

Recall is a website designed for recording League of Legends matches in an easy to use format, and personalized for each player to make notes, create highlights, or learn more about the game.

Long Pitch

Recall is a specialized League of Legends match recorder where users can input details of the game to look back on and learn from by themselves, or by sharing the matches with others. Users will be able to put in the details of the draft for each team, items built by each player, and also other statistics such as wards placed around the map, and first tower destruction time. With each major mechanic of the game, there will be sections for users to write notes in, so that they may be able to comment on different aspects of the match that they found noteworthy, mistakes they could correct, or simply to highlight a good play.

Personas

1. Jacob, age 19, male, collegiate level League of Legends player. He has a passion for League of Legends, and is a Diamond ranked player, and was able to join his college's league of legends collegiate team.
2. Ryan, age 26, male, assistant coach for JAS, a team currently playing the LCS. He is in charge of looking over past scrimmage matches between his team and other organizations, and to brief the team on VOD reviews.
3. Daniel, age 15, male, casual league of legends player. Although he isn't very good at the game, Daniel is very competitive, and very much wants to improve himself through analysis of his mistakes.

Comparative sites

Blitz.gg

u.gg

op.gg

skill-capped.com